Nazis warplanes explosively shattered a one-day lull in bombing attacks on the British Isles today, subjecting the kingdom to machine-gun attacks on villages, dive-bombing attacks on steamers and wide-spread raids from Wales to the English Channel.

The German high command reported attacks on the big military camp at Aldershot—England's "Plattsburg"—about 30 miles southwest of London—and on airports, factories and harbors in south and central England.

The extent of the toll was not immediately disclosed, except for a brief British air ministry communique saying there were "some casualties, a few of which were fatal."

Ships Are Targets

Bad weather in the previous 24 hours had sharply curtailed both British and German air raids, which have lashed at each other almost constantly since the "Battle for Britain" began June 18.

Six Nazi Stuka dive-bombers slipped down on channel steamers in a morning attack, but an eyewitness said the ships apparently escaped harm. One of the raiders was believed shot down.

The fury of the German onslaught stirred speculation whether it signalled the opening phase of a mass invasion by 600,000 Nazi troops, which a French newspaper, Le Petit Dauphinois, said earlier this week might come Friday.

Three civilians were killed and several wounded in a bomb raid on Britain's great Mediterranean stronghold of Gibraltar early this morning—the first casualties there of the war.

The raid followed close on a fiery speech by Spain's Generalissimo Francisco Franco that Gibraltar must become Spanish once more and that Spain has "2,000,000 soldiers ready to face anyone and to support Spain's rights."

Pleased by Nomination
On the political front, Britons expressed satisfaction in the nomination of President Roosevelt as the Democratic party's candidate for a third term.

The London Daily Telegraph, for example, declared:

"Whatever the outcome of the November election, the President of the United States will be a vigorous leader who realizes that the liberties of the world are threatened, knows that we are fighting their battle, and desires to help us in every means x x x."

In the Orient, Japan's new premier, designate, Prince Fumimaro Konoye, named a nucleus of expansionists to his inner cabinet—including two men who have recently attacked the United States for unwillingness to recognize Japan's "new order" in the Far East.

that opportunity never knocked at your door. Look at this!

WANTED—Five hundred "kids" to see a baseball game between the Cleveland Indians and the Boston Red Sox at League park, in Cleveland, Thursday, Aug. 1. Transportation furnished. Apply J. M. "Joe" Kelley at Memorial building or telephone 5512.

What an opportunity! A chance to see many of baseball's greatest stars in action and a battle between the two teams currently holding down first and second place in the close American race.

And, it's all free, too! Through the cooperation of the Cleveland Baseball club and the Salem Junior Chamber of Commerce, 500 youngsters of Salem and vicinity will be taken to Cleveland for a big league game.

All that the "kids" have to do is notify Kelley at the Memorial building, either by seeing him personally or calling him on the telephone and asking that their names be placed on the list of youngsters wanting to make the trip to Cleveland. The Junior Chamber of Commerce is making all other arrangements.

Ralph Zimmerman, who is in charge of the Jaycees' end of the bargain, is now attempting to line up automobiles to transport the youngsters to Cleveland. He will need at least 100 cars. Men willing to drive a car load of youngsters to Cleveland are asked to contact either Zimmerman or Kelley.

Of Salem

Four persons were injured when cars driven by Brooks DeRoads, 21, of 1299 S. Lincoln ave., and Robert A. Bell of Damascus tangled on Route 14, three miles east of Salem, at 8:10 p. m. Wednesday.

Three of the four injured persons are in Salem City hospital today, while the fourth was given first aid treatment and released.

Three in Hospital

Detained at the hospital were DeRoads, driver of the one car; Mrs. Robert A. Bell, 29, and Miss Margaret Hobson, 22, of Damascus, passengers in the other car.

Miss Hobson suffered the most serious injuries, receiving a bad laceration of her right eye, other cuts and bruises about the face and body and a back injury. Mrs. Bell sustained lacerations of her left arm and a back injury, while DeRoads suffered multiple lacerations about the face and body and bruises.

The condition of all three persons is reported by hospital attaches to be satisfactory.

Luther Wright, 18, of 140 N. Ellsworth ave., a passenger in the car driven by DeRoads, was treated at the hospital for facial lacerations, but was not detained.

State highway patrolman reported that the accident happened while both cars were traveling east and DeRoads was attempting to pass Bell's machine.

According to the patrol's report, DeRoads, seeing an approaching car as he attempted to go around Bell, cut too sharply in front of Bell's car, resulting in a collision.

Bell's car went off the road and over an embankment, stopping in a field. DeRoads' auto careened off

Henry A. Wallace Is F. D. R.'s Choice
For Vice Presidential Nomination

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, July 18—Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture and one-time Republican, emerged today as President Roosevelt's choice for the vice presidential nomination.

"It's Wallace," was the shout Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) tossed to newsmen as he left the hotel room of Secretary of Commerce Hopkins.

Both Hopkins and Senator Byrnes (D-Sc.) chairman of the convention notification committee, had been in contact with the White House by telephone. Byrnes, it was reported, had firmly eliminated himself from the vice-

Training Classes
Will Be Organized

LISBON, July 18—H. A. Moore, Columbiana county WPA certifying agent, stated today the Works Progress Administration in Ohio is working on a plan to enroll men in occupational training classes in conjunction with the nation-wide defense program, but that it will be a month to six weeks before any such plan can be put into effect in Columbiana county, according to the Akron district WPA office.

Under the proposed system, classes in mechanics and engineering and others affiliated with the war industries would first be set up in the larger cities and industrial centers, with the spread to rural counties later.

The date for receiving applications will be announced as soon as possible, Moore stated and eligibility to enroll in the classes will be determined through an interview with a representative of the district office.

Boy Is Uninjured

A Salem boy escaped when the pony he was riding was struck by a car driven by Mrs. Herbert Jones, of 250 N. Lincoln ave. on E. Fourth st., yesterday.

Mrs. Jones reported to police that her car struck the pony after the boy, Wayne Steffel of Brooklyn ave., had ridden out of an alley near the Smith creamery plant.

She said the boy was not hurt, but the pony suffered a cut on its shoulder.

NO WAR, PLEDGE

Much The Same As
Republicans'(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, July 18—The Democratic party formally entered the 1940 election campaign today with a platform pledging not to send American troops overseas except in case of attack and to give all consistent material aid to victims of "ruthless aggressors."

The party's national convention shouted quick approval last night of the platform, which said:

"We will not participate in foreign wars and we will not send our army, navy or air forces to fight in foreign lands outside of the Americas, except in case of attack."

This statement put both major parties on record against involvement in foreign war, the Republicans having made such a pledge last month.

Three Are Fined
In Canfield Court

Charged with failure to observe a stop sign, Jacob L. Heaton of R. D. 1, Salem, was fined $5 and costs when arraigned before Mayor George Wilson in Canfield yesterday.

The charge was filed after Heaton's car was involved in a collision with a machine driven by John H. Williams of Warren at the intersection of Routes 45 and 165 last Sunday.

Two other motorists arrested by Salem state highway patrolmen were fined yesterday in the Canfield mayor.

Mrs. Margaret Ashton of 1523 Elm st., Youngstown, was fined $1 and costs for failure to observe a stop sign, while Anthony J. Tocco of Youngstown, charged with unsafe driving, was fined $20 and costs.

Salem Girl, With Ambition
And Budget, Sees Hollywood

Cinderella might have taken a tip from a young Salem woman and not waited for a fairy godmother to make her dream come true. She could have set to work herself to achieve much the same results.

Of course, Cinderella's dream was taken care of in a much more spectacular way than was the ambition of this modern young miss, who merely decided what she wanted and did something practical about it. The young lady wanted to visit the film capital of the world to see first hand the creatures that make wives look at husbands with a far away look in their eyes and wish "he" had a French accent; and husbands look at wives and murmur vaguely about "lan-gorous long lashed eyes and hair of a raven's hue."

With determination, ambition and a budget, it appears all things are possible, even to the fulfillment of a dream. Miss Nelle Christopher of S. Lincoln ave., can prove that that combination does work wonders.

Piles Up 946
Votes to Win
By LandslideFarley, Garner, Hull and Tydings Withdraw, Making Nomination Unanimous; Vice Presidential Job Is Still
"Open Prize"

CHICAGO, July 18—Franklin D. Roosevelt was renominated for president early today by a Democratic national convention which, with a thunderous disregard for precedent, flung aside the 144-year-old two term tradition.

Ignoring the President's message that he had no "desire or purpose" to be a candidate, the delegates gave him 946 13-30 votes on a first ballot roll call to a collective 149 1-15 for four other candidates.

Their votes:
James A. Farley, 72 27-30.
Vice President Garner, 61.
Sen. Millard Tydings, 9 1-2.
Secretary Cordell Hull, 5 2-3.

Each of the others quickly removed himself from the field, and with a roar of acclamation the nomination was made unanimous.

Then the convention sat down to wait for Mr. Roosevelt's reply to the appeal that he run again. A special committee tried to reach him by telephone following the nomination, but, it being well after midnight, was told he had retired. Nevertheless, it went ahead with tentative arrangements for him to give his answer in a radio speech tonight.

Delegates also sought any word of

Policy On Foreign Affairs Is Praised

He elicited applause when he read sections praising President Roosevelt and approving the legislation enacted under the New Deal, promising a continuance of its principles. He got another rise out of the foreign affairs section, which said:

"We will not participate in foreign wars, and we will not send our army, navy or air forces to fight in foreign lands outside the Americas, except in case of attack. We favor and shall rigorously enforce the Monroe doctrine."

Rep. Elmer Ryan of Minnesota got the first sample of the convention mood a moment later. He offered a resolution opposing a third term, but the last words were drowned in a storm of "boos."

Some "ayes" were heard when the question of adoption was put, but they were instantly smothered in a tumult of "noes." The platform itself was adopted with a roar.

These preliminaries cleared away, the convention dived straight into

Farley's Name Is Proposed By Glass

Arizona yielded to Virginia, and the 82-year-old Sen. Carter Glass proposed the nomination of James A. Farley. His voice was husky, and he apparently spoke with considerable effort.

"Through consideration for the party itself, for its success and perpetuity, I have come from a sick bed to present to this convention the name of a great Democrat, James A. Farley," he said.

Glass called Farley "a man who believes in the unwritten law and the traditions of the Democratic party that have prevailed since the day of Thomas Jefferson, who less than three years before his death appealed to the party he established never to nominate a man for a third term."

There were boos from the audience, but a moment later there were cheers when Glass added:

"Since I have been sitting on this platform I have had two anonymous communications objecting to Jim Farley because he's a Catholic. It made me more determined to nominate Farley."

The Massachusetts standard was yanked out of its socket, and another parade started. The organ boomed out "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling." Several other states joined in. But the demonstration was short-lived.

his choice for second place on the ticket if he does accept—which most politicians here confidently expect. The vice presidential nomination was still described as an open prize, subject to capture by any one of a dozen or more aspirants.

The convention started its history-making session last night in a staid and traditional manner. Delegates stirred and talked in the same old way while Sen. Robert Wagner of New York read the platform.

the business of nominating a presidential candidate. The Roosevelt name was dropped in at the outset of a state-by-state roll call.

"Alabama," the clerk shouted.

Sen. Lister Hill climbed through the crowd to the speaker's stand.

"If America is to survive," he said, "we must now give the best that there is in us and in the cause of freedom and law and justice. I place in nomination that valiant American, Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

Hill stepped back, and the stadium floor became a mass of yelling, dancing, shouting, pushing delegates. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, waving aloft an uprooted stalk of green corn, leaped through the aisles with the rest of the Iowa delegation.

Women were borne aloft on men's shoulders, waving banners. Horns and bells added to the bedlam. The organ and band from high up in the second balcony added to the uproar. After 23 minutes, Barkley ordered the call of states to continue.

Down the roll the clerk went. Gov. Culbert Olson of California, Sen. Francis Mahoney of Connecticut, Sen. Claude Pepper of Florida, and Gov. Herbert Lehman of New York seconded the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt.

Sawyer Announces Support
No more seconding speeches for the president were permissible under the rules, but the chairman of many state delegations including Charles Sawyer of Ohio announced support for Mr. Roosevelt.

Maryland presented the name of Sen. Millard E. Tydings. But the crowd was getting impatient and Edward J. Colgan, Jr., of Baltimore, was interrupted by shouts of "name him—name him."

Massachusetts' produced Patrick J. Boyle to second Farley's nomination, but a challenge came as soon as he sat down. William H. Barker said that he and three other Massachusetts delegates had been sent to vote for Mr. Roosevelt.

A great cheer went up when Montana seconded the Roosevelt nomination. Sen. Burton K. Wheeler had himself been a candidate, and decided only yesterday to keep his name out of nomination.

Vice President Garner's name was the last to be put up. Wright Morrow, a Houston lawyer and an old friend, proposed his nomination in a speech that was interrupted frequently by yells.

But Morrow clinched the edge of the reading stand and held his ground. Texans piled out of their section and paraded with a cowboy band when he finished. Rep. Sam Rayburn, the house majority leader, was among the paraders.

The brief demonstration finished, the rest of the roll call was hurried through, and the voting started.

The Roosevelt nomination went over midway of the roll call, the big block from New York being enough to put his total above the necessary 551 majority.

THE KEYNOTE

Speaker Bankhead, like Gov. Stassen who keynoteed the Republican convention, is the victim of circumstances. The traditional function of a keynote speech was to plunge delegates into a dither of excitement and enthusiasm. Perhaps in ancient days that's what happened. In modern days, the cruel truth is that it doesn't happen—but the keynote speeches are delivered anyway.

Rep. Bankhead did what he could. He semi-officially announced that the Democratic party was going to campaign on the proposition that everything done since 1933 has been faultless and that everything done before 1933, back as far as Woodrow Wilson, was maliciously or accidentally stupid. This is pure nonsense of course.

A moment's reflection suggests that if national conventions weren't hand-cuffed to tradition there wouldn't be any keynote speeches. The convention would proceed immediately to the business at hand, which is to nominate a candidate for president and give him a running mate. Thereafter, while delegates, alternates and visiting firemen were making hotels, taverns and mercantile establishments hum with their patronage, the candidate himself would give a keynote speech. That would end the convention and start the campaign. It would be a distinct improvement.

Rep. Bankhead said one thing of more than passing interest. He said it several times in fact. The Democratic party is not going to send American boys to fight abroad. His listeners cheered this wildly. They cheered the same thing when Postmaster General Farley, relinquishing his post as Democratic national chairman, said it. Apparently this signifies that party leaders are deeply concerned lest it be less than plain that they intend to keep the country out of war. The strategy of the Democratic campaign of 1916 has not fled from their memories.

WHEN HOOPLA OES SPLAT

Most Americans these days have a lively radiotelevision interest in national conventions. The speaking, cheering and balloting make one of the biggest air shows there is.

The Republican convention came up to expectations, then exceeded them by leaps and bounds. Suspense crackled out of the loudspeakers like static electricity from a cat's back on a frosty morning. It was the best break the Republican party has had since Calvin Coolidge.

A political outsider named Wilkie came barging into Philadelphia and stole the show. The suspense he created covered up most of the convention's soft spots, such as humdrum speeches and a so-so platform.

Hovering over the proceedings was the sizzling question whether the hero would beat the flyer to the crossing and keep the chiselers from foreclosing on the mortgage. Not a leaf stirred; not even a spoon stirred.

It hadn't occurred to many ticketholders for the Democratic convention to think about it, but the show in Chicago was bound to be a turkey in comparison with the Republican's smash hit.

The prospect became definitely gloomy when James A. Farley decided to take the hint and step aside: Mr. Farley has been a symbol of Democratic success rivaled only by President Roosevelt himself—and Mr. Roosevelt was in Washington silently waiting for New Dealers to draft him for a third term.

The result, to date, has been a shocking disappointment to the radio audience. There is no oomph in Chicago. Without oomph there can be no hoopla—and without hoopla a convention goes splat. It's just one of those things. If radio listeners are disappointed, what must it be like for the delegates who spent money to be on the scene?

THE STARS SAY:

For Friday, July 19

ANOTHER DAY of spectacular events, with unprecedented progress which may result in a complete turnaround face from old ideas and traditions, with eyes turned front to definite new adventures and experiences, radical and far reaching. Originality, advanced ideas possibly of startling nature or of exalted vision may be expected to project to high levels of achievement with the element of romance not slighted. In such major operations however, there is need for discretion as there are hints of fraud, duplicity, irregularity.

Those whose birthday it is are at the brink of a year of excellent progress and prosperity which may demand a radical and far-reaching turn in the affairs, with new ideas, fresh scenes and high aspiration. There may be strokes of remarkable creative genius, with extraordinary adventure and possibly romance in the forefront.

A child born on this day may have such creative genius and originality, with trends toward the ever-changing new and novel. Its progressive traits and talents may invite perfidy and opposition and from high places.

JOINING THE ISSUE

The Democratic party had a momentous decision to make this year. Would it take the chance of cutting loose from the New Deal, or take the chance of sticking with it, which meant nominating Franklin D. Roosevelt for a third term?

The party has chosen the latter course. The campaign issue has been joined squarely and firmly. Wendell Wilkie, who wanted to argue the New Deal with the man who is the New Deal, is going to have his opportunity.

Likewise, voters who have wanted a chance to express themselves on the third term question are going to have their chance. In politics, as in war, the strategic problem is how to join the conflict in such a way that a defensive conclusion will be assured. No loose ends will be left dangling when election day is over next November. It will be Roosevelt forever or never.

There are many overtures of meaning in the Democratic convention which will not be missed by those listening for them. Some of them come from the party's platform. The party's dependence on Mr. Roosevelt to win votes does not entail acceptance of his views on foreign policy, for instance.

The same divergence appears in attitudes on party organization, such as reluctance to substitute New Dealers for Democrats in the party's leadership. No matter how hard Democrats try to present the appearance of one big, happy family, the circumstances of disruption are plain. All New Dealers are Democrats, in a generic sense, but all Democrats aren't New Dealers.

In 1932 the Democratic party enjoyed the experience of being revitalized by Mr. Roosevelt's dynamic campaigning. In consequence it took control of the government in 1933. Many Democrats didn't enjoy what followed, but all was forgiven when Mr. Roosevelt carried 46 states in 1936. Again, some of them didn't enjoy what followed but all will be forgiven if Mr. Roosevelt can turn the trick again in 1940.

Seems rather out of character on the part of Mr. Chamberlain that he should be the man of Great Britain to come out with a pooh-pooh against thoughts of peace.

From Washington comes a report that there is urgent need for camouflage specialists. We suppose those who can make a $46,000,000,000 deficit look like a surplus are preferred.

Here is a news item that says: "For stealing a chime clock a man was sentenced to five to 30 years in Ohio penitentiary." Had he stolen a million dollars, his freedom would have been assured, we suppose.

Beware The Poison Ivy

Clendening Calls It Plant Enemy No. 1

BY LOGAN CLENDENING M. D.

A number of weeds will cause a skin eruption on contact and this also is true of at least one domesticated plant—the primrose. The most frequent and, of course, the arch-enemy, is the family of Rhus—poison ivy, poison oak and poison sumac.

Not everyone is susceptible to these eruptions. And apparently all those who are sensitive acquire their sensitiveness by a single contact which renders them liable to severe eruption later. Baffin Bay Eskimos do not react when given patches tests to poison ivy, which does not grow north of the St. Lawrence river. Newborn infants are not sensitive to poison ivy. But 50 per cent of young adults in the vicinity of Dallas, where the plant grows abundantly, react positively.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Primrose dermatitis is said to occur in 5 per cent of adults. But 250 medical students with no history of exposure showed negative patch tests, while 8 per cent of Dallas florists who handle the plant reacted positively.

The Rhus family prepares its poison in the form of an oily, sticky resin or sap that runs through channels in the stems and the leaves. Neither the pollen, the bark the plant hairs, nor the surface cause poisoning when touched.

Beware Breaking
But if a stem is broken or a leaf torn or a flower or berry broken off, a milky juice comes out in small drops and this is the poisonous sap that does the damage. A set of small tubelike canals runs up the stems, out the stalks of the leaf, breaking up in the veins of the leaf and in the flowers and berries. Each canal is surrounded by glandular cells which secrete the poisonous sap.

Every spring as the old stalks come to life, new canals and poison glands are formed, and the new young plants have very delicate leaves, easily broken by those who are picking wildflowers. The plants are dangerous all through the year, even in the winter when the light gray, smooth, brittle stemmed plants growing along fences may be mistaken; but the easily broken stems will exude the irritating sap just the same.

Recognition is indeed the key to the whole question of poison ivy prevention. "Leaflets three, let it be." Beware of reddish leaved plants before autumn has come.

Injection Aid
Poison ivy grows in rich, damp soil, shrub-like or climbing up trees, over rocks, or walls, or fences. It is found all over the United States except on the Pacific coast where it's cousin, the poison oak, supplants most vicious of all is the poison sumac which grows almost entirely in bogs.

Prevention and treatment of poison ivy is now done quite successfully with poison ivy extract. To prevent, it is given in two hypodermic injections at two week intervals. For treating, one injection gives marked relief in 24 to 48 hours.

good substitutes for food when you are hungry between meals? (3) Does drinking water with your meals cause you to fatten?

Answer — (1) The removal of moles is really valuable in preventing cancer. Such removal will not cause cancer. (2) Yes, pickles always hunger to a certain extent but paradoxically do not spoil the next meal. They are not fattening. (3) No, water does not stay in the stomach with the food but goes right out into the intestines. It is absorbed ahead of the food and does not cause increased absorption.

"TITAN TOWER" by JAMES C. CHESNUTT

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

After the gray man resumed eating, Linda noticed that he hadn't changed a bit. He was wearing the same gray suit and the same gray hat. His old gray hat, which was the same, only now it was a shock of thick gray hair. The only thing about him that wasn't gray was his face. It was ruddy and healthy.

Linda turned from her appraisal of him to stare again at her un-gauged cake and to wrestle again with her thoughts. How long she stared she didn't know; nor did she know that there were tears in her eyes until she heard her companion speak.

"You know you really should," he said, "eat something. Need something on the stomach for a good day's work."

And then she turned toward him the lovely, anguished face, down which tears had started twice.

"I don't want anything on my stomach," Linda said. "I've got too much on my mind."

"Well, now," the man meticulously replaced his fork on the plate, "suppose you get it off, if you feel you can trust a new friend."

"Leaders," he explained.

It seemed his pockets contained everything but Tom Sawyer's pet frog, Linda thought, but no card.

"Well," he said, the search fruitlessly ended, "guess we can't be formally introduced. Reckon the name doesn't matter, anyhow; might spoil the start of a beautiful friendship."

"I just work near here," he continued, resting in the direction of Titan Tower. "The Building is a good part of my life—that is when I'm not hiding out in my hermitage in the hills. They tell me down at The Building that I'm indispensable, but I think they do it to flatter me. Reckon The Building will still be standing right there long after I'm gone."

He said "The Building," each time, as though it were the proper name of a friend.

Wrong again, Linda thought, remembering Steve. And I thought he was a newspaperman. This funny-looking, likeable old guy is probably the assistant chief janitor on his day off. But I like him.

"Phooey to names, anyway," Linda smiled, extending her hand. "I'm Linda and you're Mr. Avon.... what'd you call that interest you said you had in me?"

"Make it," the gray man said, "make it 'Mr. Avon' for short. Shake it."

They did.

Later, after he had escorted her down the street to Titan Tower, Mr. Avon tipped his hat, said goodbye and walked twice around the block for his constitutional.

As he came back to the building and entered the elevator to return to his own office, Mr. Avon was greeted enthusiastically by an elevator man.

"New here, son?" Mr. Avon asked.

"Yes, sir," the elevator operator answered.

"Well, this isn't a lecture, son, but you can do me a favor, if you will. All of the old boys here know I feel mighty conspicuous if I get 'mistaken' to death all around the place. It just doesn't fit me, somehow."

"No, sir," the operator said. "I mean—yes sir."

"So I'll feel much better if you'll just say hello to me, nice and cheery, like you say it to anyone else who works here. And never mind the Mister Blaine."

"Right!" the operator said. "Twenty-five."

And John Ralston Blaine—or Mr. Avon—got out of the car and stepped into the automatic elevator which took him to the penthouse of his building.

When Linda came home that night, after her new-formed friendship with Mr. Avon began, her thoughts kept playing hop-scotch. She would take two or three mental jumps forward along the line of solution of the problem of Bill Blaine and what to do about him.

SAWYER BOOMED AS F. D. R. MATE

Ohio Delegates Soliciting Roosevelt Support For "Favorite Son"

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, July 18.—After giving President Roosevelt a solid block of 52 votes, Ohio delegates to the Democratic national convention today solicited the President's support of their "favorite son"—National Committeeman Charles Sawyer—for the vice presidential nomination.

U. S. Treasurer W. A. Julian of Cincinnati, chairman of a caucus at which the Sawyer boom started, informed the President Ohioans had bound themselves to the former lieutenant governor and asked an expression of approval of Sawyer as a running mate.

Meanwhile, Buckeye delegates button-holed those from other states for support of their candidate as Perry Faulkner of Montpelier, O., prepared a speech placing the Ohio committeeman in nomination.

Faulkner's position was clouded somewhat by his wearing of a Paul V. McNutt badge which he said he would continue to wear while nominating Sawyer.

Supported By Labor

A promise that organized labor would support either Sawyer or Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace came from John Owens, Ohio CIO head, and associates of former Gov. Martin L. Davey joined the drive, hoping to strengthen the Ohio Democratic harmony spirit.

Starting late, the Sawyer boom rapidly became a serious campaign with leaders asserting it had a "splendid chance" of succeeding. Some delegates observed privately, however, that it got under way too late to make much progress.

Action of the convention resolutions committee against a minority report which would have opposed a third presidential term prevented a threatened bolt of some Ohio delegates.

Informed persons said eight delegates had agreed to support an anti-third term plank if the issue was presented to the convention. The movement was planned as a protest against certain convention procedure, these persons declared.

The third term opponents were said to have been ready to ask a recorded floor poll of the Ohio delegation if there had been an opportunity for a test of the issue.

Missionary Society In Columbiana To Hold Tea In August

COLUMBIANA, July 18.—The Presbyterian Missionary society was entertained in the home of Mrs. C. B. Riggle Wednesday afternoon, with 15 members present. Mrs. Riggle presided at the business meeting at which time plans were made to hold a foreign missionary tea at the home of Mrs. Elmer Detwiler sometime in August.

The program committee is composed of Mrs. Maurice Michaud, Mrs. E. J. Esterly and Mrs. C. D. Strickler. The meeting will take the place of the regular August meeting. Mrs. C. W. Griswold, stewardship chairman, had charge of devotions.

The program was presented by Mrs. Russell Esterly, who gave a report on the subject, "Rapid Changes" and Mrs. Elizabeth Decker, whose subject was "Town and Country." Refreshments were served by Mrs. Riggle at the conclusion of the meeting.

Plans are progressing for the week-day religious education which is being sponsored by the Columbiana Ministerial association under the direction of a committee composed of Rev. Walter R. Gobrecht, Rev. John K. McDivitt and Rev. G. A. Funk. This is the first time a course of religion has been offered to students here.

The classes will be taught by the six ministers of the town and will require one period per week. The class is elective and students will be given one-fourth unit of credit for satisfactorily completing the course. The books must be purchased by the parents or by a fund made possible by local people interested in religious education of young people. The Ministerial association is anxious that parents cooperate with them and that registration blanks be filled out and handed to the pastors as soon as possible.

The weekly meeting of the Town-club was held last night at the city hall. The program included special music and speaking.

Bad Breath and Body Odor of Constipation Makes Warren Lady Like Hermit

Says Elated Over Bardex Tonic Relief

"I stayed at home so much because of embarrassment about bad breath and body odor that I was getting to be a regular hermit," said Mrs. Alice Brady of R. D. 1. "I got such help for this condition through Bardex Tonic—constipation relief that I'd like for all women, now embarrassed as I have been, to know about it. In the last few years I had become a lot more constipated and this brought on a lot of other ailments besides the odor problem. My skin was getting dull and sallow and my eyes bloodshot and yellow looking. Sometimes the back and top of my head ached so much it seemed it would split. I'd often spend whole evenings with my hands pressed against the back of my head trying to ease the pain. The people who came near irritated me and I much preferred to be by myself. Of course I had indigestion badly and eating was another problem."

"Some older neighbor ladies told me about Bardex and I used it to ease the terrific constipation headaches. I hardly expected to learn that constipation was in fact the cause of all my suffering. The first bottle practically convinced me of this, however. I got splendid elimination relief at once and when I had finished the fourth bottle all the frightful constipation results were almost gone. The pains and aches have left me and so has the body odor. My indigestion is much better and my breath feels sweet and clean. I'm looking healthier all around and feel more active than in a long, long time. I'm more than elated over Bardex Tonic."

Bardex Tonic contains roots, barks, herbs and leaves brought here from various parts of the old world although they grew in the United States because many such ingredients lack the medicinal values and are entirely different in content, action and result of these growing in old world climates. Thus we find in Bardex Tonic medicines made by nature before science, yet taking their place with modern medical science.

Bardex is sold at Floding and Reynolds and Broadway Lease and Lincoln Lease drug stores. Adv.

VISITS STARS IN HOLLYWOOD

Visits Studios And Sees "Glamour" Boys, Girls At Close Range

Peeks at Pickfair
She dined at Ciro's and visited the homes of many of the best known stars, including Pickfair, formerly the home of Douglas Fairbanks and now the estate of Mary Pickford, and the charming home of the screen's golden child, Shirley Temple.

The Brown Derby, the radio station and the races she found to be most frequented by the stars she wanted to see. There she saw Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy, and many others.

During her trip through the MGM studio, arranged by Nelson Eddy's secretary, Miss Christopher visited the set where Norma Shearer and other players are making "Escape," and watched a rehearsal of a dance sequence from the new Mickey Rooney-Judy Garland musical, "Strike Up the Band." She met and talked with the young male star of that picture, known to millions as the lovable, irrepressible Andy Hardy.

Miss Christopher found him friendly, courteous and interesting, much "the typical American boy." Hedy Lamarr, who is, Miss Christopher remarked, the most beautiful of the feminine stars she saw, posed for snapshots, as did several of the others, including James Cagney, Norma Shearer, whom she calls the most gracious and charming of them all, and young John Carroll.

Gable's Got 'It'
The celebrated "appeal" of the screen's Rhett Butler is not exaggerated, Miss Christopher says, while Cagney's screen personality is much less winning than his own.

She watched the broadcast of several well known shows which starred Charles Boyer, Irene Dunne, Allan Jones, Charles Winninger and others.

Almost unending consideration for the fans who flock about the places they frequent, often disrupting the stars' scheduled functions, is the chief characteristic of the film stars. They are far from the celluloid images most fans picture, lacking in real life the glamour that the screen creations give them but they possess a charm of manner, a casual friendliness, genuine interest in others and keen, frank enjoyment of their "un-private" lives that more than make up for the loss of their synthetic "glamour."

Miss Christopher has always been considerable of a traveler, having visited in various sections of the country, but counts her western trip as the most delightful.

Duke, Duchess Will Govern Colorful, Historic Islands

(By Associated Press)

NASSAU, BAHAMAS, July 18—When the Duke of Windsor becomes governor of the Bahamas, he will use a great seal of office 222 years old that still reads:

"Destroy the pirates, restore commerce."

That motto gives the tip-off to a strange contrast between the respectful civic pagantry with which Edward and his duchess will be greeted and the belligerent welcome that warlike buccaners gave the Bahamas' first governor more than two centuries ago.

According to modern tradition the duke will be greeted by a guard of native constabulary, a Boy Scout drum corps and enthusiastic townspeople.

Pirates Did It in 1718

A thousand pirates gathered to welcome Capt. Woodes Rogers, the first governor, when he sailed into Nassau harbor one fine day in 1718 laden with loot from Mexico and a small armed force. Rogers had gained some fame, before his appointment, by rescuing Alexander Selkirk, the real Robinson Crusoe, from the island of Juan Fernandez.

For many years, British pirates and French corsairs had used the intricate passageways among the Bahama islands for headquarters from which to make plundering forays on Spanish galleons richly laden with loot from Mexico and Peru. The settled Spaniards, in turn, retaliated with periodic raids on English settlements, occasionally burning a few towns.

Rogers arrived with explicit instructions from the king to rid the island of these sea scavengers.

His mission amused the swaggering pirates who had either bribed or cowed private Bahaman rulers and thus gained immunity from interference. So, resplendent in their stolen finery, they gathered in Nassau to carouse and meet this governor who had been sent to destroy them.

Rogers himself a reformed buccaner, adopted diplomacy and a stern courage. He offered full pardons to those pirates who would mend their ways, and many accepted.

The recalcitrants received summary treatment.

Very Inhospitable
Eight ringleaders, were hanged in one day at a spot now known as Execution Dock. Some fled in haste from this inhospitable retreat. The pirate era ended.

The Bahamas, a scattered chain of 3,000 islets and bays, are rich in historical lore.

It was only 200 miles away, at San Salvador, that Columbus first set foot on the new world in 1492. The aborigines, called Lucayans by the discoverer, were virtually exterminated by the Spaniards. Many were sent to work in Hispaniola's mines.

Following the common practice of claiming huge slices of the new world, King Charles I gave the Bahamas to one of his favorites in 1629.

The reformation started by Governor Rogers was interrupted once when the Spaniards captured Nassau, but a British official from South Carolina, using more guile than force, recovered the capital for England.

After the American revolution several thousand British loyalists fled to the Bahamas with their slaves, more than doubling the colony's population.

Profit From U. S.
The Bahamas have profited considerably through the years from internal troubles of the United States. During the American Civil war, the islands offered a refuge for blockade runners smuggling badly-needed supplies to aid the southern cause.

Again, during the United States' prohibition era, the Bahamas served as headquarters for rum runners.

It is a serene colony that the Duke of Windsor will govern. Tourist trade is the principal industry. Some 18,000 visitors arrive annually.

ed. The recalcitrants received summary treatment.

Swank hotels, a golf course, a horse race track night clubs and fishing cruises cater to varied tastes of the wealthy. Some have established residence, attracted by the sub-tropical climate and freedom from income and land taxes. Altogether, the duke will rule over some 60,000 permanent residents, a majority of them Negroes. The natives not engaged in tourist trade find a livelihood in sponge collecting, lumber cutting, and the farming of tomatoes and sisal hemp.

Nebraska Senator To Bolt Democrats

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Sen. Edward R. Burke (D-Neb.) announced here today that he would bolt Democratic party ranks and support Wendell L. Willkie, Republican, for the presidency.

The Nebraska Democratic senator, defeated for renomination recently, made public a letter to the Republican presidential nominee which said:
"As one who feels deeply that in the light of present world conditions it is essential for our country to maintain the two-term limitation on the tenure of office of president I shall work for your victory at the polls in November."
Senator Burke, frequent critic of the present administration and outspoken opponent of the third term, was defeated in the Nebraska Democratic primary in his renomination effort by Gov. R. L. Cochran.
The senator wrote Willkie that he was "certain that a host of Democrats would support the Republican nominee."

"Beesy" Firemen Oshkosh, Wis.—With a little cooperation, the Oshkosh fire department might have saved Henry Bertholtz barn.

Angered by the blaze, thousands of bees attacked the entire fire department.
Unprepared for the onslaught, the firemen withdrew and the barn burned.

NO WAR, PLEDGE OF DEMOCRATS

Military Platform Is Very Much The Same As Republicans'

Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican presidential nominee.
"The nomination of a utility executive by the Republican party as its presidential candidate raises squarely the issue, whether the nation's water power shall be used for all the people or for the selfish interests of the few," the platform said. "We accept that issue."
Re-Endorse arm Program
The Democrats re-endorsed the administration's farm program and pledged themselves to continue or broaden virtually all its phases.
They opposed lodging control of federally-financed work relief in the states, pledged continued enforcement of the "fair labor standards law," maintenance of the principles of the National Labor Relations Act, expansion of employment training for youth and older workers, and an effort to extend the Social Security Act to "millions of persons not now protected under its terms."
The platform committed the party to advocacy of "an invincible air force, a navy strong enough to protect all our seacoasts and our national interests, and a fully equipped and mechanized army."

Legion Auxiliary Will Hold Outing
LISBON, July 18.—The Ladies of the auxiliary to John Welch post, American Legion, will join with other auxiliaries of the county in their annual picnic at Firestone park, Columbiana, at 6:30 p. m. Friday.
Families of members are invited.

Dies In Collision
FOSTORIA, July 18.—Mimi Wallace, 44, of Cleveland, was killed in an automobile-truck collision on route 12 east of here yesterday.

The road and crashed into a tree. Bell and Robert Roberts of Youngstown, a passenger in De-Road's auto, escaped uninjured.
Cars driven by Miss Dorothy Mae Weppelman, 18, of R. D. 1, Columbiana, and Glenn B. Jackson of Washingtonville collided on Route 7, near the intersection of Route 14, at 8:30 p. m. Wednesday. Miss Weppelman received bruises when her car turned over after the collision.
A truck driven by Edward J. McCalmont of Mesopotamia struck two cows owned by Roy J. Zimmerman of R. D. 5, Salem, at 4:30 p. m. Wednesday on Route 14, one-half mile east of Washingtonville. The cows were not seriously injured.
McCalmont told state patrolmen he did not see the cows nor farmers flagging down traffic to permit the animals to cross the road.

No Black Sheep Listed Yet In the Family of John D., Jr

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, July 18—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., smiles today at the memory of friends who used to tell him: "With all that money to spoil them, you're entitled to four black sheep out of those five boys if only one comes out good."

Not one black sheep has shown up yet, and it looks as though none will.

For it was announced this week that his youngest son, David, is engaged to wed, at 25, without having had a single sensational fling as a rich playboy.

Three of the four older boys are already married.

Only Winthrop remains unmarried, and his liking for gaiety, which once worried his father, has long since been accepted by the family as harmless fun.

No Place For Notoriety
Notoriety has no place in the Rockefeller tradition, just as divorce has no place in the matrimonial sphere David is preparing to enter.

David's engagement to Margaret McGrath, who shares his taste for intellectual pursuits, is in keeping with the family's conservative faith in happy marriages which last, and which have little to do with the night club set, and little interest in the world of fashion.

Attractive Peggy McGrath, who will become Mrs. David Rockefeller, didn't care to have a formal debut, although her parents are listed in the social register and her mother is a member of the exclusive Colony club.

She cares more about literature, pictures, music—interests she has in common with David Rockefeller, whose scholarly pursuits have made him a candidate for a Doctor of Philosophy degree at the University of Chicago.

Her father, Francis McGrath, is a partner in a famous old Wall Street law firm. Her grandfather was a former railroad executive.

David and his bride-to-be have been friends for years. Acquaintances say he sought her for a partner at her first dances.

The reticence of the Rockefellers can be depended upon to disclose few details of their courtship. But friends of the family know that it must have been lasting devotion to live through the years when David strongly preferred bugs to girls.

Too Much Competition
Young ladies who knew his habits during those years refrained from walking with him anywhere except city streets, for he'd go along with his eyes intent on the road ahead, stooping down to turn over every sizable stone in the hope of finding a new beetle for his immense collection.

Today David applies to government all the intentness which once went into the pursuit of beetles. He is working without salary, in Mayor LaGuardia's office to learn the practical side of civic problems. Politics may become his career.

Or he may go into the public relations end of business. Whatever he does, he need not worry about income. Although his grandfather gave away at least $530,000,000 and his father has given millions more, David and his brothers—John III, Nelson, Laurance and Winthrop—have their own trust funds.

The five brothers (they've also a sister, Abby, who likes to keep out of the news entirely) always have stuck together. If David follows tradition, he will move his bride into one of the houses on the big estate, Pocantico Hills, along the Hudson river. The house, plus $21,000, will be a wedding gift from his pa. There he will become one of a group of family men who hurry home from the office in the evening. His three married brothers all complain they haven't enough time to play with their children.

Twins In Family
The biggest family belongs to Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller—she's the former Mary Todhunter Clark. They have five children, including the only pair of Rockefeller twins, Michael and Mary Nelson runs Rockefeller Center and heads the Museum of Modern Art.

John D., 3d, has three children, one of them bearing the name John D. 4th. Mrs. John D. Rockefeller 3d, the former Blanche Sooker, is deeply interested in humanitarian causes, as is her husband. Once, addressing a conference on family life, she criticized wealthy blue-bloods whose chief interest in charity seemed to her to be self-glory.

She is pretty, dark-haired, vivacious, and a great music-lover. Her husband sits on the board of all the major Rockefeller philanthropic agencies.

Laurance and his wife, the former Mary French, have two children. He holds the family seat on the stock exchange and is Nelson's assistant at Rockefeller Center.

Winthrop, the oil man and the only remaining bachelor of the five

To Stay in War Zone

Although much pressure has been brought to bear to induce the English royal family to send the Princesses Elizabeth (left) and Margaret Rose to the safety of Canada, the royal children will not leave England. They are shown at one of the country homes of the King and Queen.

sons, has been taking the military training course for business men at Plattsburg, N. Y. He balances night clubs and Broadway with welfare work and aid to needy youth.

The women of the Rockefeller family through the years have been molders of characters. Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was an example. She cared for her five sons and one daughter—herself, delegating little to servants; helped give them their early education and watched over them in illness.

Servants are having a minor part in the rearing of the fourth generation, too. These children are watched over by their parents. They are required to dig garden and do chores for pocket money. And if they misbehave, they are sent upstairs—as their papa, were before them.

FARMINGTON, Mass. — Walter F. Partridge, 92, believes he is the oldest mason in point of service. Born in Franklin in 1848, Partridge has been active in masonic work for 70 years. He became a master mason three months after his 22nd birthday.

DES MOINES, Ia.—Trixie, pet dog that merely turns up her nose without so much as sniffing when confronted with a bone. Trixie is a strict vegetarian, preferring carrots, cabbage and spinach.

SANITARY COPS CLASS A FIRST ROUND TITLE

TOPS LEETONIA, 5-1, IN 2ND GAME BETWEEN TEAMS

Class A League To Start Second Half Race Today

The 12-team Class A softball league was ready to start its second half campaign today after crowning the National Sanitary as champion of the first half.

Two games at Centennial park this evening will open the league's second half of the 1940 season. The Salem Recreation will face the Trades Class in the first game at 5:30, while the Salem News will meet the Salem Saxons in the nightcap at 6:30.

The second half will continue through Tuesday, Sept. 3, leading up to a playoff for the city softball championship between the first and second half winners.

Sanitary Tops Leetonia
The National Sanitary captured the first half championship last evening by spanking the Leetonia Merchants, 5 to 1, before a large crowd.

It was the second meeting of the two teams which battled to a 5-5 tie in their first game Monday evening.

Probably the greatest hare of credit for the Sanitary's victory goes to Dale Ritchie, who hurled 23 straight innings without relief in three days to pitch his team into the championship.

Ritchie gave up seven hits last evening, blanking the Leetonians in the last six innings after he had scored one run in the first frame. He received good support from his mates, whose only error was committed by Left Fielder John Pukalski.

The Sanitary touched Pitcher Kenny Brudery of Leetonia for eight hits, three one runs in the first inning, three in the third and one in the sixth.

The scrappy Leetonia club scored its lone run in the first inning when Art Nicolette walked and crossed the plate a short time later after consecutive singles by Ralph Mansuso, Jack Woods and Mike Mancuso.

The Sanitary came back to tie the score at 1-1 in the second inning when Ritchie singled and scored on Nicolette's error.

Take 4-1 Lead
A three-run spurt in the third inning, featured by Bob Jeffries' home run, put the Sanitary out in front, 4-1, and they were never headed from then on in.

John Dermotta opened the Sanitary's third-inning outburst with a single, scoring on Zamerelli's one base hit. Jeffries' home run drove Zamerelli across the plate.

The Sanitary boosted its lead to 5-1 in the sixth inning when Ritchie doubled to get on base and scored on Pukalski's single.

Ritchie, in addition to pitching the Sanitary to the victory, shared hitting honors with Zamerelli. Both collected two safe blows.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, July 18 — Harry Danning himself couldn't have done a better job of catching than Lew Jenkins did in the Giants' ball park last night. . . . And the pitching by Henery Armstrong wasn't so bad. . . . Those last three rounds, he looked like a combination of Bobby Feller and Lefty Gomez, wild but effective. . . . And they said Henery wasn't the Armstrong of old. . . . Maybe he wasn't, but we didn't hear Texas Lew hollering for a return bout soon as he reached his dressing room.

One Minute Interview
Bill Terry, smiling leader of the Giants, "I'm changing the batting order, and I'm going to apply a firm hand from now on with my players, so that it will set them back some of their pay when they don't do things my way."

Stunt and nonsense: A guy by the name of John Dillinger is leading the Middle Atlantic league in you guessed it—stolen bases. . . . Only five regulars in the National league are batting over .300, which definitely makes it a pitcher's paradise.

Pome
Feller's beaten by the Yanks, cusion's thumb is in a splint. Fielders put their dough in banks. But pitchers get their names in print.

Broadway and points west: The Broadway borscht belt will sprout a dude ranch. . . . A guy who owns a couple of hotels is soon to open a routin'-tootin' place for the cowhands from Lindy's. . . . That forehand of Frankie Parker, which was to lead him to the tennis heights, still has a noticeable hitch in it.

Take 4-1 Lead
Duke Walker of the Dodgers is to have a "day" a week from Sunday, with a testimonial dinner and all the fixings that night.

Today's Guest Star
Tom Meany, New York "PM," Jenkins still has his biggest fight on his hands—trying to convince Mrs. Jenkins that there is an excuse for giving Hymie Caplin a part of last night's purse.

HALE REPLACES KENNY KELTNER
"Bad News" Sammy Put On Third In Tribe Infield

Sammy Hale, who paced the Cleveland Indians in their third-place drive last season as substitute for Second Baseman Ray Mack, will see what he can do at third base to check Tribe losses and keeping the club in first place.

The veteran infielder has taken over the hot spot held by Ken Keltner, benched by Manager Oscar Vitt in the belief rest might bring him out of his defensive weakness and his batting slump.

In the unlucky, 13-inning series opener which the Indians dropped to the Yankees yesterday, 4 to 3, Hale was charged with two errors—one of them helping the champs to score two runs in the first inning.

But he collected two of the Tribe's seven hits and is batting .292, compared to Keltner's .230, and the club that regained first place by losing only one game while the Detroit Tigers dropped two can use that extra power.

The Tribe's pilot nominated Al Milnar to work on the mound today as the Indians tried to even the score after yesterday's endurance test. Right-Hander Spurgeon (Spud) Chandler opposed him.

DENVER—Boys and girls still believe in being good around Cadistmas, but the summer months show less juvenile delinquency than any other period of the year, reports Juvenile Judge Eugene Madden. "With the coming of vacations children get so much varied activity that they don't have time to get into trouble," he said.

ARMSTRONG NOT SAME, BUT STILL TOUGH TO BEAT

Hammering Henry Gives Jenkins Terrific Beating

By GALYE TALBOT

NEW YORK, July 18 — Henry Armstrong isn't the fighting machine he was a year or two ago, but he still is plenty good.

The beating the busy little Negro gave Lightweight Champion Lew Jenkins in a non-title bout under the Polo Grounds lights last night was a masterpiece in brutality. Every move of his brown body was calculated to lead the climax between the sixth and seventh rounds when Jenkins slumped senseless from his stool.

Few of the 23,000 spectators realized what a terrible going-over the slender Texan had received. Some were surprised when he collapsed, when Referee Arthur Donovan called Armstrong to ring center to lift his glove.

Still Dazed
But in his dressing room, Jenkins still was so dazed it took him some time to realize how his downfall had come. The battered 135 pound king continued to ask whether he had been counted out. It required all the persuasion of his manager, Hymie Caplin, to get him calmed down.

For the first three rounds, Armstrong scarcely laid a glove on his tense, savagely-punching opponent. But for the next three rounds he was poison, and Jenkins' doom clearly was sealed from the first terrific left hook that caught him on his sharp chin and dumped him to the floor.

In all Jenkins was down six times: Once in the fourth, twice in the fifth and three more times in the sixth, when he was so weary he could lash out only spasmodically by instinct. The third time he went down in the sixth he wasn't hit, but simply fell from a right he aimed at Armstrong and missed.

Nation Speeds Up Training Of Men for Airplane Building

By DEVON FRANCIS
Associated Press Aviation Editor
LOS ANGELES, July 18.—One of the "bottlenecks" in the nation's drive for air rearmament, the training of skilled and semi-skilled workmen for dozens of aircraft factories, is being whittled in advance.

In schools supported by cities and states, and run by private initiative, men—thousands of them taken from the relief rolls—are being taught the art of running huge machine tools, of shaping and riveting metal, of assembling the big hydraulic mechanisms which actuate the landing gears of bombing planes.
